MEDIATION

Together Mediation provides a family mediation service throughout England and Wales. We aim to help adults, whose relationship or marriage has broken down, come to a mutual agreement regarding their children, finances and property

By going through mediation, you can avoid the costs and stress of going to court

Our Mediators are professionally accredited with the Family Mediation Council and are also experienced Family Solicitors who are members of the College of Mediators, Family Mediation Association, Resolution and the Law Society

Mediation is a positive method of resolving issues that come to light because of a relationship breakdown, separation or divorce. Before you can make an application to the Court for family matters, you must have attended a Mediation Information and Assessment Meeting (MIAM) unless certain circumstances apply

 We continue to provide family mediation by video conference which has many benefits. Our team are also participating in the Government Voucher Scheme, where the Ministry of Justice will provide contributions of up to £500 per family, to resolve issues relating to children following parental separation. In most cases this covers your costs

Our professionally trained mediators can help you resolve issues that might include:

- Arrangements for your children (New - Including child inclusive mediation)
- Child maintenance payments
- Finances
- Property

Attending mediation can help you stay in control. We help both parties gain a clear understanding of their financial position, helping you to consider all available options. You can attend mediation separately or together, as you prefer, but nobody is forced to attend. We ensure that neither party is put under any pressure

All discussions that take place in our mediation meetings are 100% confidential. We will not give out your information without written consent from both parties. However, in a situation where a child is thought to be at risk, this may change

Depending on the issues that need to be resolved, you can expect to attend between two and five meetings

How can Mediation help you?

In both the long and the short term, mediation can help couples come to decisions and agree on certain arrangements, thus reducing conflict

It also has other benefits including:

- Court fees and proceedings can be avoided
- Greatly reduce stress on family and children
- Gain a clear understanding of your financial situation
- Make communication easier, particularly if you are arguing
